

Provider Privileging

Ensure your providers are vetted and qualified to perform specific patient care services at your facility.

Provider privileges define the scope of permitted activities that the provider may engage in while at a facility. A provider who is not properly privileged at your facility cannot see patients there.

A number of provider types are qualified to render care services in a hospital setting. For example, if an OB/GYN needs to deliver a baby at a specific hospital, the provider will need to be privileged at that facility. A provider who is not privileged at that facility will not be able to perform the delivery.

Health plans also require that providers have specific privileges. If providers do not obtain the required privileges, they will not be enrolled with the health plan.

Provider Privileging Just Got Quicker and Easier.

Provider Privileging is the process of authorizing a specific scope of practice for patient care in an inpatient setting based on an evaluation of the provider's credentials and performance.

TractManager's Provider Privileging technology speeds up the process by providing easy access to real-time provider data stored in a single, central database. Embedded with our workflow automation, Provider Privileging enables quick Primary Source Verifications (PSV), Peer References, and decision-making regarding provider qualifications and performance to ensure that the appropriate documentation and information accompanies a provider throughout the privileging process.

TractManager's Provider Privileging technology:

- Expedites the privileging process. By digitizing application intake, automating Primary Source Verification, and enhancing the approval process, our CARE software streamlines and accelerates the process of granting privileges to providers.
- Centralizes credentialing and privileging functionality. Our technology centralizes credentialing and privileging functionalities across multiple facilities within a health system.
- Ensures accuracy and completeness. Our technology is embedded with workflows and triggers that quickly identify gaps and discrepancies in information. Our multiple integrations with primary sources ensure that the most accurate information is accessible to you.
- Enhances brand integrity. Process centralization and efficiency contribute to a positive and seamless privileging experience, ensuring provider satisfaction and appropriate care coverage.
